

An Egyptian Discussion Of Antiquities Suddenly Veers Into Nuttiness

Here.

The claim is made – you can find more if you google “von Senff” and “Woo Woo Valley” – that somehow, because something that looks something like hieroglyphics were “discovered” in Australia, that therefore Egyptians today can properly lay claim to Australia. I suppose that’s one way some desperate Egyptians might think – we have a right to go to Australia, to lay claim to it.
