DEDICATION

To Dr. Jill PhD, PhD, & etc.

MADAM,

IT MAY BE expected that when I write this Life of Ms. Harris, I should dedicate it to some youngish and therefore not yet elderly Lady whose wit and beauty and sincere dedication to scholarship and intersectionality might be the proper Subject of Comparison with the Heroine of my Piece. I have therefore prefixed your Name to my Work, and indeed, your character, though not a true and exact likeness of the matchless Ms. Harris, is nevertheless, a Parallel in some sorts.

I wish it were possible to write a Dedication without one Word of Flattery, but indeed it is not, and so I hope to show my Delicacy at least in the Compliments I pay you.

First, then, Madam, I must tell the world of the true greatness of your Scholarship which has brightened up many young people now entering onto the severe and demanding work of study at many of our most notable Departments of Gender Instruction & etc.

Secondly, You have been visibly moved by the true compliments showered on you by The Washing Postal, a mainstay of Veracity in our times of Darkness.

Thirdly, You keep very good Hours and are frequently up with the twitters with whom you so in-timately converse. On this I will stake an Oath; for on more than one occasion I have been ad-mitted to your very Presence, in the morning before most of the Servants are up and about. I have there found you perusing books of great redeeming Character, some of which I could name. Naturally, I would not wish to presume upon your modest nature by naming them publicly, although I do recall your scholarly enthusiasm for a simple tale about white people, who have done bad things. To my experienced eyes, you then appeared as Happy as Barry.

Fourthly, You have the true Virtue of the kind which enables you to soldier on beside the Big Man, and despite of all the Appetizing Temptations of Puddings and Custards made available by your Negro Cook. This is a Virtue which I can greatly admire, though my own predilections run to substances of a different kind, which was introduced to me by my esteemed genderfluid friend.

Fifthly, You have long taken part in the conversations of Men and Other Genders. Indeed you have engaged in debate with Eldridge Machete and know how to pronounce many Sacred Words such as 'Om' or even 'Oddman' silently – the word of words, and to speak it trippingly with a glow of pure spirit.

A FURTHER APOLOGY FOR THE LIFE OF Ms. SHAMALA HARRIS.

Parson Jeremiah Bright to Parson Michael "Heavyman"
Moore

Rev. SIR

Herewith I transmit to you a copy of a Life of Shamala Harris, a little Book which has received already much favorable Press, especially in such notable news-flingers as The New Yourk Times and Washing Postal, both reputable sources of all kinds of things, including a detailed look at their own mindfulness. I have no doubt that you have already heard mention from some simi-lar-minded Neighboring Clergy; for we have made it our common Business here, to cry it up and preach it up from the Pulpit, as well as at Tarmucks Coffee houses. All who have heard of it have praised its fulsome regard for their Truth, and its hatred of the sins we have so often spo-ken of.

As someone has pointed out, this Book is the 'Soul of Good Breeding, Discretion, Wit, Fancy, and Morality.' And indeed it is sure to spread all kinds of knowledge about the need for transsex-ualism and electric vehicles.

To be short, this book will endure for ever and carry on the good works of wokism and damning bad Public Policy and Amerika and so forth. I heartily endorse this book and would recommend it to be read over five or six times.

Also, colored people and other marginalized communities should definitely be able to find it in their public libraries and not have to endure the inconvenience of taking an active part in a most-ly peaceful riot or any such thing.

Sir,

Your Most Humble Servant
Jeremiah H Bright, Rev. Dr. And Etc.

Rev. SIR

I have just now returned from undergoing liposuction treatment in a Communist Paradise. And I must say, that the authorities of the Island were delighted to be in receipt of a signed copy of this little masterpiece. The citizens were all agog and praising highly the insightful work of Dr. Profes-sor Oddman, whose literary efforts compare so well to their own journalistic standards.

I am Sir,

Your Most Humble Servant
