

Bernie Sanders trounced Hillary Clinton in the Democrat NH Primary despite his Israel hating Advisers

Bernie Sanders may have trounced Hillary Clinton in yesterday's New Hampshire primary by a significant double digit margin with his Wall Street bashing and Swedish-style entitlement giveaways trolling for millennials and the economically disaffected. However little known are his foreign policy advisers who are notoriously anti-Israel and pro-Palestinian. Among them are Jim Zogby of the Arab American Institute, former Defense official Larry Korb and, of course, the Soros-funded operatives of J Street.

Adam Credo's article in yesterday's Washington Free Beacon article noted the views of these 'foreign policy' advisers, "Meet Bernie Sanders' Israel Hating Advisers." You thought his stint in a left Socialist Hashomer Hatzair Israeli kibbutz in his 20's would make him a lifelong Zionist defender of the Jewish State. As my mythic cousin Vinny from Brooklyn would say, FERGEDABOTIT. Just look at his brother who lives in the UK, a supporter of the anti-Israel pro-Palestinian Labor Party leader, Jeremy Corbyn. Bernie congratulations Corbyn on his victory winning the Labor Party leadership. The UK Daily Mail article noted his email to Corbyn saying:

The Democrat presidential hopeful said he is 'delighted' to support a leader who 'tells the billionaire class that they cannot have it all'.

'At a time of mass income and wealth inequality throughout the world, I am delighted to see that the British Labor Party has elected Jeremy Corbyn as its new leader,' he said in an email to Daily Mail Online.

'We need economies that work for working families, not just the people on top.'

His words come after then Argentina's President Cristina Kirchner, since ousted by conservative successor Mauricio Macri, gushed that 'hope has triumphed' and that Corbyn 'stands with Argentina' in their anti-American stance.

Bernie also has a close friendship with notorious left wing anti-Israel advocate Noam Chomsky who endorsed him for President. They both share an Israeli kibbutz experience that in Chomsky's case bolstered his Israel hating obsessions.

Watch this You Tube video of Chomsky's endorsement of Bernie for President:

Note these comments from Noah Pollak, executive director of the Emergency Committee for Israel, Michael Rubin, resident scholar at the American Enterprise Institute and Yehudit Barsky, fellow at Institute for the Study of Global Anti-Semitism and Policy in Kredo's Washington Free Beacon article:

Sanders, who is Jewish and had family members slaughtered during the Holocaust, recently disclosed that his top foreign policy advisers include J Street, a dovish Middle East advocacy group that backs some of Congress' most vocal critics of Israel, former assistant Secretary of Defense Larry Korb, and James Zogby, an Israel detractor who heads the Arab American Institute.

The inclusion of these advisers in the Sanders' campaign, which has already come under fire for ignoring prominent Jewish-American political organizations, has prompted speculation from some that the presidential hopeful will pursue anti-Israel foreign policy priorities.

"Bernie seems to care very little about foreign policy, and so his views are shaped inordinately by advisers," said Noah Pollak, executive director of the Emergency Committee for Israel, an advocacy organization. "And now we know who those advisers are. Two of them—Zogby and J Street—are leading anti-Israel apologists for terrorism. By his association with these extremist groups, Bernie fails the commander-in-chief test."

"If advisers are a crystal ball to the future of foreign policy, then Sanders seeks a policy which doubles down on many of the failed assumptions that have undercut Obama's policies," said Michael Rubin, a former Pentagon adviser and terrorism analyst. "America's adversaries are real and are motivated by ideology rather than grievance. To rest American national security on the good will of anti-American despots and Islamists is never a good gamble."

Zogby has accused the Jewish state of committing a "Holocaust" against the Palestinians and has referred to Israelis as "Nazis." He has also described sitting members of Congress as "Israel firsters," an anti-Semitic trope that implies dual loyalty to the Jewish state.

Zogby also has come under fire for exploiting the memory of the Holocaust for political purposes.

Zogby claimed in a 2010 blog post for the Huffington Post that "the plight of Palestinians is to the Arabs, what the Holocaust is to Jews world-wide."

His comparison immediately drew outrage, with researchers from the UK Media Watch organization describing it as "grievously insulting."

"Nothing that I could say to highlight his words would make them any more insulting or horrid than they are on their own," a representative of that group wrote at the time.

"Zogby has two goals: to make Arab Americans more powerful than Jewish Americans and to be their preeminent leader,” Yehudit Barsky, a fellow at the Institute for the Study of Global Anti-Semitism and Policy, wrote in a profile about Zogby’s anti-Israel attitudes.

J Street has faced similar criticism for its efforts to pressure Israel into making security concessions to the Palestinians that could endanger its survival.

J Street accused the Jewish state of “fanning growing flames of anti-Semitism” due to its efforts to stop daily attacks on civilians during Israel’s 2014 battle against Hamas terrorists.

The group’s leaders also have accused leading Israeli politicians of being racists.

We’ll see how Bernie Sanders fares in the upcoming Democratic primaries. Given his radical background there was a reason why the media took to calling the city he was elected to serve the People’s Republic of Burlington. With the FBI released a letter yesterday that Hillary is under investigation because of alleged confidential intelligence abuses using her private email server, you never know what can happen next in the 2016 Democrat Presidential nomination race.