

Child sex gang will not face re-trial – sentencing date set

From the were all convicted on Tuesday following a trial which began in October.

After the decision was made Judge Peter Ross lifted a number of previously imposed reporting restrictions.

This means that details of the case can now be reported via social media for the first time and comments on web reports are now permitted.

It can also only now be revealed that the case – which is part of Thames Valley Police's Operation Silk – follows an