

Common Constitutional Sense From The Supreme Court

The Supreme Court votes to uphold the requirement, in some states, for would-be voters to show identification, the same kind of identification you need for a dozen ordinary transactions every day, of far lesser significance, in order to prevent voting fraud.

Here.