

CPAC's untold story: 'America-First' runs deeper than Trump

by Steve Hecht

Media coverage of the CPAC "HR-1 voting law, Representative Jody Hice (R-GA) said, "If we lose election integrity, we lose everything."

Exposing the Race Card

Glenn Beck and Ben Carson exposed the false narrative of so-called systemic racism and the racism of critical race theory. There are more slaves in the world today than when the first slaves landed here and when Abraham Lincoln declared them free in 1863. The lack of outcry by those who attack the United States is deafening.

Beck and Carson spoke about the great progress we have made in race relations. Carson said the way to fulfillment is through education and asked why Democrats oppose school choice. He said the left projects itself and its ways onto enemies.

The enemies of liberty falsely describe themselves as inclusive, yet, in an Orwellian manner, they favor racial discrimination. Martin Luther King Jr. would be horrified by today's race hustlers and would have been thrilled by the conference. The attendees embrace King's aspiration of people being judged by their character, not the color of their skin. More importantly, they live it.

RINOs Becoming Extinct

The coalition that brought Joe Biden to power praises what it calls moderates in the Republican Party, AKA straw poll, Trump garnered 98 percent approval and four-fifths of a theoretical presidential primary.

The establishment hates the America-first policy because it represents rule by, for, and of the people as opposed to establishment elitists. They demonize Trump to distract attention from their real enemy: the America-first policy.
