

Extraordinary moment a Muslim tourist orders local Bali families off a public beach while 'brandishing a knife' – so his wife wouldn't see other 'partially-dressed' men

From Kumparan.

'I asked what the reason is? He replied, 'I and my children are Muslim and do not allow her (wife) to see other boys, especially you only wear boxers.'

The pair continued to clash before Arya eventually called his brother, a village official, who arrived with other residents to help try to resolve the matter.

Arya claimed the tourist brandished a knife towards residents during the heated discussions and that police were later called.

Still unable to resolve the matter, the villa caretaker later asked the tourist to leave the premises. The tourist reportedly apologised and pleaded to be allowed to stay there, which was refused by the local residents. 'He and eight of his family left from there, we escorted to the border of Temukus Village. [We told them] to visit other places outside of Bali,' Arya said. He called on village officials to issue a regulation stating the beach is public where everyone is welcome.

From what I can see in the video the local man is wearing more clothes than the tourist.
