

I just caught a clip of Mr. Carney on one of his stage managed campaign stops.

By William Corden

Is it just my faulty perception or is he starting to look unnervingly like Mr. Biden ?

His personality comes across as a beige landscape on a beige background.

I'm sorry but I can't see one redeeming factor in this man or even a glimmer of hope that he will lead Canada to a better future.

Surely the Canadian public can't be stupid enough to vote this guy and his party in again.

We're having the wool pulled over our eyes with pathetic mini trinkets and if they get in it'll be back to the usual tyranny of the majority by the woke minority on the first day of the week following the election.
