

Illustration to my comment

I like local newspapers. Often that is where the big Nationals and Dailys get their story, so I go back a day to the original source. I like to know what the local man or woman on the ground heard, saw, investigated. I'm old fashioned like that. Anyway this is a screen shot of the sort of thing I have been getting for the last couple of years when trying to read some (not all) local newspapers of smaller US towns and cities. It illustrated my comment to