A PRISON officer was stabbed by a crazed inmate in a feared terror attack at a jail dubbed Monster Mansion. The guard was knifed repeatedly with an improvised weapon and another was punched in the face.

The inmate, understood to be a Muslim convert, was heard shouting "Allahu Akbar" – God is Greatest in Arabic.

Police were called to HMP Frankland in County Durham and cells locked down for searches. Last night, one officer was in hospital with non-life-threatening injuries and another had been discharged.

A source said: "This was a pre-planned attack and the inmate had made a 'shank'.

“He went up behind the officer on one of the wings and stabbed him several times, including in the neck. They did well to subdue him so quickly. Even the cons were shocked and everyone was talking about how it was a terror attack – and they were surprised one had not happened before. There was also talk that the attacker had converted to Islam inside the jail.”

One wing holds Islamist inmates, and there is a separation unit for those deemed a threat to national security.

Prison Service sources accepted the attacker shouted “Allahu Akbar” but said they were not treating it as terrorism.

A spokesperson said: “We cannot comment on a live police investigation.

Prison Dawa is a threat worldwide. I still believe that a good solution would be a return to the isolation system of the Millbank Penitentiary and Lincoln Castle (where the booths used in chapel can still be seen) Modern science could prevent the mental illness that resulted in the suspension of the method in the 19th century. In any event Islam is a culture that mandates covering and seclusion for its women; the men are surely able to thrive under the same regime they impose on their wives and daughters.
