

Jordan Peterson: Message to the Churches

Will they take his advice? I doubt it. Our Christian churches are almost completely secularized and have become not much more than social clubs with some social service thrown in. Their prescription for spiritual growth is: Be Nice. Jesus is portrayed as a starving ascetic who does not appeal to manly men. It may be too late to save the churches, but I admire Peterson's bold prescription.