

Merry Christmas to All

To our many contributors, you have made our magazine a thing of beauty.

To our many readers, you have given us far more than you will ever know. Your comments and encouragement have buoyed our spirits and given us countless ideas and thoughts to ponder.

New English Review is a living thing with deep roots and many branches. You have made it so.

Thank you.