

Migrant 'tried to kidnap a little girl, 10,' while living in 3-star taxpayer-funded asylum hotel

From the Manchester Evening News and The Sun

A man has been charged with attempting to abduct a 10 year-old girl.

Algreave Road in Stockport (Image: Google)

Police have confirmed the charge relates to an alleged incident on Sunday, July 13, on Algreave Road in Stockport.

Edris Abdelrazig, 30, of Wilmslow Road in Manchester, has been charged with attempted child abduction. The Sudanese man appeared in court accused of attempting to take the girl of ten while she was with her father. Police were called to the area, near to Walnut Tree Playing Fields, at around 8pm on the day. It's not thought there were any injuries reported.

He had been living in a three-star, £100-a-night hotel in leafy Manchester suburb Wilmslow.

He appeared in court in Stockport last month and was ... subsequently remanded in custody to appear at Minshull Street Crown Court in Manchester on August 26. The case has been listed for a plea and trial preparation hearing. No plea has been entered as yet.