

Muslim sentenced to 10 days imprisonment for threats to behead Queen of Denmark, King of Sweden and others.

But according to his wife he does have psychosis because he smokes too much dope. The English language sources for this are Arutz Shiva The original Danish source is ...in Copenhagen between October 16 and 24. In Copenhagen's sentencing, he was charged with five specific threats, which he denies.

October 17 at 1 p.m. 14.52, according to the charge, he wrote a text next to a photo of Rasmus Paludan holding a Quran: 'If you are a man, show your face in public, and then you can burn the words of the Qur'an, then I will burn Denmark and all that is in Denmark including you '.

October 18 at 1 p.m. 18.15 came the threat to the queen and the royal family.

Two minutes later, the Facebook post continued: 'I'll give you a week's deadline. If you do not stop, you will stop your life all together and forever you whores. I'm going to kill as many people as there are stars'.

On the same day, half an hour later, the threats continued: 'And I will not let a single disbeliever, in a world war, which I will end in an hour, with God's will ... I see some necks that have matured , and the time has come to pick them and I'm going to pick them '.

Threat to the Swedish King

October 24 at 4 p.m. 8.10 he wrote, according to the charge, the latest threat – now aimed at Swedish police and the Swedish king:

'Last warning to the Swedish police and border police, if I do not receive an answer soon, then, with God's will, I will put down the state and the king, even if I am then forced to sever his head from his body.'

He says the threats look worse translated into Danish than he intended. The 'Queen' was not meant as Queen Margrethe but his ex-wife; other threats were to old acquaintances in Jordan who have been maligning him. That he isn't particularly religious and his recent growth of beard is merely 'to see what it looks like'. He is appealing the sentence. That whole 10 days.