

Muslims in Whitechapel east London mishandling Israeli dates in supermarket

5 PillarsUK the Muslim site seem to be very proud of this, so proud they have published the video on twitter.

Muhammed Abdulla and Ismael Patel are their names.

Two Muslim activists from East London have taken direct action against Tesco for selling Israeli dates this Ramadan.

pic.twitter.com/Sw8KTsqpr2

– 5Pillars (@5Pillarsuk) April 7, 2023

I'm with the comments – Met Police should take action (I bet they don't) and whenever pork sausages find their way into the halal meat chiller there are shrieks of HATE CRIME!!!!

- I bet the computer used to distribute this video has Israeli tech. Maybe you should boycott that too.
- Don't complain then when someone puts a tray of pork chops among the halal section on Asda...
- I make a point of always buying Israeli produce.
- I don't, I will now though.
- Does this mean we can remove Halal products from shelves consequence free @metpoliceuk?
- Will be going out to buy as much #Israeli product today then thanks for the nudge! Any condemnation of the terror attacks over last 24 hours or rocket attacks from #Lebanon ?
- Do whatever you like back in your own muslim countries, import only what you want, but you're in the UK STOP TAMPERING WITH THE FOOD based on your racism
- This is not activism. This is a crime. Israel thrives while its enemies seethe in impotent anger. Israeli Medjool dates are delicious.

- Has anyone got stickers that WE can put onto anything halal in OUR shops?
- Simple solution, Shut the mosque down and move it to a muslim country and so on. I particularly like the replies that are the Israeli flag.

I'm pleased to know that Tesco have Israeli dates in stock again; I only buy Israeli dates, and if English tomatoes are not available I always chose Spanish and not Moroccan. But I don't trash the Moroccan; I have no personal animosity to honest farmers.