

‘Not terror-related’: Flinders Street driver of Afghan descent and mentally ill

You may wonder why I accepted that the man who tried to enter the AgeChristina's comments earlier are pertinent now.

...surprise, surprise, he's committed assaults in the past, he's into drug-dealing, and ... he has ... as so many, many of them seem to have, all these damn attackers seem to have "mental issues". And so it's "not terror-related". Nothing to do with Islam... Pffft. None of our stupid reporters thinks to draw the attention of the inquiring mind to the curious fact that, although we have lots of psychiatrically-ill non-Muslims in Australia, and petty criminals aplenty, NONE of them have ever taken an SUV and drove it full-tilt at and through hapless pedestrians on a busy city street in broad daylight. (In the case of a previous car-ramming attack in Melbourne, there is a quite strong suspicion that the disturbed mind of the attacker was attracted to/ inclining toward Islam... funny, that... even if he might not have been an actual convert).
