

Obama administration placed children with human traffickers, report says

Not the human traffickers who brought them here, rather the human traffickers who snatch them up and exploit them once they get here. The US government is helping both groups of traffickers. To be fair, these government workers are overwhelmed and exhausted, nevertheless, these children are the victims of all sides.