

Omar Mateen Posted to Facebook During Massacre

The terrorist wanted there to be no mistaking his intention. It also seems rather common for Muslims to hate homosexuals and yet engage in homosexual activity themselves. CLICK HERE TO READ SEN. JOHNSON'S LETTER TO FACEBOOK

"I pledge my alliance to (ISIS leader) abu bakr al Baghdadi..may Allah accept me," Mateen wrote in one post early Sunday morning. "The real muslims will never accept the filthy ways of the west" ... "You kill innocent women and children by doing us airstrikes..now taste the Islamic state vengeance."

Mateen's social media accounts were taken down before they could be widely viewed by the public, but Johnson's committee investigators have uncovered some or all of them. The senator has also written a letter to Facebook executives expressing concern about Mateen's postings and asking for more information on his activities.

"It is my understanding that Omar Mateen used Facebook before and during the attack to search for and post terrorism-related content," read Johnson's letter. "According to information obtained by my staff, five Facebook accounts were apparently associated with Omar Mateen."

The posts uncovered by Johnson's committee shed light on Mateen's actions in the hours that followed his 2 a.m. raid on the nightclub. Mateen, armed with a Sig Sauer MCX assault rifle and a handgun, shot his way past an off-duty cop and sprayed bullets throughout the club, which was packed with more than 300 revelers when he arrived. Some escaped, many died or were wounded and scores more waited out the horrific ordeal, knowing each moment could be their last.

As survivors cowered in darkened rooms, praying and texting police and relatives, Mateen accessed his Facebook account to search for media reports, using search words such as "Pulse Orlando" and "Shooting." An FBI source told FoxNews.com he also made 16 phone calls from inside the club after the bloody spree began. Investigators are tracking down each of the recipients of those calls.

Mateen proclaimed his hatred for Westerners in one Facebook post uncovered by Johnson's committee.

"America and Russia stop bombing the Islamic state," Mateen wrote.
