

OUCH! Like There's No Tomorrow

by Reg Green

Trips to the supermarket – or anywhere where money changes hands – are now so expensive that ‘spending like a drunken sailor’ no longer sounds strong enough to describe an act of mindless recklessness. How about ‘spending like a drunken admiral’?