

Pompeo: Many Saudis Want to Normalize Relations with Israel

by Hugh Fitzgerald

Israel has now normalized ties with four Arab states: the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain, Sudan, and Morocco have all joined the Abraham Accords. Israelis themselves have been going great guns in weaving ties with these new partners, especially with the Emirates, which was first to sign on. But what the Israelis now hope for is that Saudi Arabia, the richest, most powerful, and most influential Arab state, will decide to join the Abraham Accords. The view of former Secretary of State Mike Pompeo about the prospects for that happening, is reported on here: “Pompeo: ‘Many’ in Saudi Arabia Seek Normalized Ties With Israel,” Jihad Watch.
