

School of Oriental and African Studies hosted more extreme speakers in past year than any other university, report finds

From the