

Something autumnal

I thought I'd better take this quickly, during a break between showers, as last night's high winds took a lot of leaves off the trees and these colours won't last much longer. A mere suburban hedge that I always admire at this time of year.

