

That Attorney Disciplinary Committee in New York

by Bill Corden

I've had extensive dealings myself with the Attorney Disciplinary committee in New York and I have to let people know that it's the WORST process imaginable.

It's staffed by volunteer attorneys who make it quite plain that they don't want to investigate anything that they don't get paid for. The entire infrastructure is peopled by political appointments or lawyers trying to pad their resumes. They don't call witnesses (as Mr Giuliani has repeatedly stated) they don't answer emails or letters and they offer no assistance whatsoever to complainants unless the complainant is influential in their preferred political sphere. It's the very same set up for complaints against judges, and although that committee is a little more responsive, it's still a completely toothless tiger.

The penalties they give out are laughed at by the rogue lawyers and invariably have no effect on their behaviour, which is why Giuliani ridicules the decision. And so he should ridicule it, because there has been no legal process. There is a very legitimate case to be made for claims that the election was fixed, anyone who has the slightest understanding of statistics would question how mail-in votes went so overwhelmingly in favour of Biden, as it defies all possible odds. They have consistently refused to hear any evidence and ruthlessly silenced anyone with the effrontery to challenge the result. The corrupt media won't give one line of ink to it.

When someone as high profile as Giuliani can't get justice what chance does the great unwashed have?

My own case against a certain lawyer in Manhattan is lying at the bottom of somebody's two foot high in-basket and will never, ever see the light of day.
